

Monday November 10th 2008
7 for 7.30pm start

at: Penzance Arts Club, Chapel Street, Pz.

‘Symbolism in Penwith’s prehistoric landscape’

Paul Bonnington is the local National Trust Archaeological Warden, and is responsible for the management of nearly 1800 archaeological monuments in the area. His talk will focus on the development of West Penwith's ceremonial landscape during the Neolithic and Bronze Age periods, and address the underlying cultural symbolism which determined its creation and use.

ALL WELCOME! Café Scientifique was set up to create an opportunity for open dialogue between the general public and scientists. Please come along, ask questions, share your ideas and hopefully learn something new!

FREE ENTRANCE - £2 suggested donation

For further details, email Luke Murray at:
PenwithCafeSci@googlemail.com